

The Macy Catheter

A new option for patient comfort

The Macy Catheter allows medications to be given quickly and comfortably when medications cannot be taken by mouth.

In hospice care, patients often need medication to control symptoms such as pain, agitation, and difficulty breathing. Sometimes patients can't take medication by mouth. The Macy Catheter offers a comfortable and private way to give medication. The catheter is a small, soft tube that allows medication to be easily delivered in the rectum. The catheter can remain in place for up to 28 days for continued medication delivery.

The Macy Catheter helps control symptoms quickly and allows patients to remain in the setting of their choice. It provides peace of mind knowing that medications can be given without disturbing or repositioning the patient.

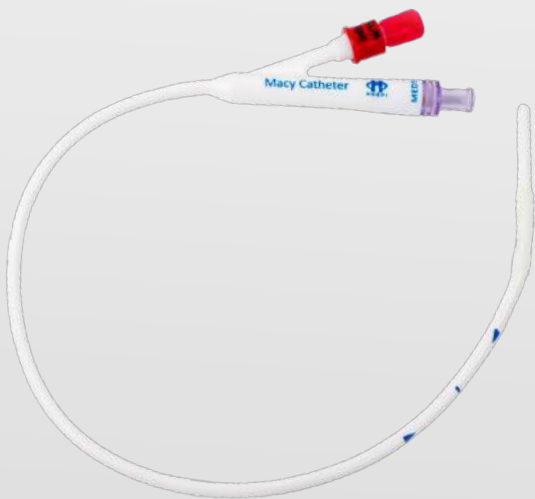

When the Macy Catheter is needed.

Call your hospice agency if you are concerned about a patient's ability to swallow medications or if symptoms are not well controlled.

A Macy Catheter can be placed by a trained nurse in a simple and painless three-minute procedure. Once in place, medications can be conveniently given to control symptoms.

The Macy Catheter is comfortable and is designed to come out easily when the patient has a bowel movement. If this occurs, the catheter may be reinserted*.

Ask your nurse about the benefits of the Macy Catheter.
